Employee Grievance Policy

Fictional training document for the HR Policy Assistant RAG project.

Raising a Concern

• Employees who have workplace concerns may first discuss the matter with their reporting manager when appropriate.

• Employees may contact the HR department if the concern cannot be resolved through their reporting manager or if the matter is sensitive.

HR Assistance

• Employees may request HR assistance regarding workplace conduct, harassment, discrimination, policy concerns, or other employment-related matters.

• Employees should provide accurate information when submitting a grievance.

• HR may request additional information or documentation to understand the concern.
